I think so, unless he has a lot of questions. Do you want to take a look at the memo I sent to Carrie and see what you think?

What do you think? Is 15 min enough time? I have to take care of a personal matter this morning and won't be in the office until later. I plan to be in by 10:30 if all goes well.

Am trying. I put in a meeting request on Tuesday. I never know when the front office staff folks are around; very hard time getting them to respond. I've tried again.

Another option would be to do the briefing as part of our weekly WLO meeting with Avi today; agenda does not look too full so we could use maybe 15 minutes of that hour. It's 1 pm today (ET). Would that work?

Carrie,

We heard back from our RA that he will likely talk to the Administrator the latter part of next week. That could change b/c he also needs to talk with her about Dewey Burdock and he may choose to do both at the same time. There is more of an urgency on Dewey Burdock so it could happen earlier next week. If there is any chance to talk to Avi in the next two days that would be great but we understand that may not be possible.

Thanks for all your help with this. Please let me or Lucita know if you have any questions.
